All Jetex exhausts are designed using free-flowing 'absorption' silencers to maximise backpressure reduction. Less backpressure leads to increases in engine torque and BHP, ideal for standard and tuned engines.

With ever tightening emission regulations, Jetex is well placed to offer sports and FiA catalysts with 100 and 200Cpsi. This ensures that race regulations are met with the least impact on performance.

KART INDUSTRY

John Mills Engineering Ltd

PF International Kart Circuit,
Brandon, Lincolnshire
NG32 2AY England
Tel: +44(0)1636 626424
Web: www.jmracing.co.uk/

JM Engineering was started by John & Roger Mills 58 years ago, making JM the longest standing kart company in the UK. They were based at John's home in Worksop where they prepared karts and engines and competed all over Europe with Roger driving. Soon they started supplying other enthusiasts with karting parts, and so the company started. In 1964 they started a relationship with Giovanni Parrilla and became the importer for the Saetta engines and then later DAP. This was a relationship that would last over 40 years and are still, to this day, close friends to Angelo and Achile Parrilla. Throughout the 1990's the racing carried on with John's son, Mike Mills and Roger's son, James Mills. The business continued to grow with the biggest change occurring when they left their home town of Worksop and moved to the purpose built facility based at the PFI kart circuit 14 years ago. The company is now directed by James and Mike who forged new relationships with some of Karting's biggest brands, such as IAME, BirelArt, Komet, Sparco, Alpinestar and Bell Helmets to name a few, becoming the UK importer for them. All of their products can be seen at their shop at the UK's premier kart circuit, PFI.
